B.M. SMITH'S MEMORIAL GIFT

The Dedication Brings Many Distinguished Guests to Meredith.

THE DONOR PAYS ELOQUENT TRIBUTE TO HIS PARENTS.

Senator Gallinger, Dr. Greene and Other Prominent Men Address our Citizens.

On the first day of November, 1854, Benjamin M. Smith, now a resident of Beverly, Mass., came to Meredith to reside. He was 21 years of age that day and came here with his parents, John and Mary Smith, from Centre Harbor. At that time Mr. Smith, senior, was a well-to-do farmer, but later on he invested the savings of a lifetime in Concord & Montreal R. R. stock, and becoming frightened at the rumor that the road was in financial difficulties and that stockholders were liable for double the amount of their stock, he disposed of the same to Hanson Beede, who is Meredith's oldest resident at the present time, for $6.50, stocks that had cost him many hundreds of dollars.

To make matters worse at that time, Benjamin was sick and for two years was unable to assist his father. In the year 1856 he told his father that he must do something, and the latter, realizing that the young man was not in a condition to perform hard, manual labor, purchased a quantity of yarn, giving his note for the same, which he peddled from house to house and dispose of it. Within thirty days the young man returned with the money to take up the note, and that was the starting point in a career that has given the subject of this short sketch a handsome competence and enabled him to build a magnificent library in Meredith as a tribute to the memory of the parents who taught him that industry and honesty were virtues that would bring him happiness and success.

The story of the building of the B. M. Smith Memorial Library has been told many times in the News during the past two years. It was in the News several months ago that Mr. Smith's magnificent offer first appeared, and we have the pleasure this week of announcing that the building is completed, that the keys are in the hands of the trustees of the Meredith Public Library, and that it is now the property of the town of Meredith.

The weather Monday was all that could have been desired—one of those perfect June days extolled by the poets. It seemed as if nature had combined with man to make a success of the memorable event. At an early hour the work of decorating business places and private houses was commenced, and before noon pretty Meredith wore a holiday appearance,

The 12.46 train from the south brought in the neighborhood of one hundred visitors from Boston, Beverly, Salem, Gloucester, Haverhill, Nashua and other cities. The News was unable to secure a list of the visitors, as the majority of them were in town only a few hours. Among them were: Senator Jacob Gallinger, Dr. J. A. Greene, Mayor John F. Hurley (Salem), Mayor Cole (Beverly), Editor W. O. Clough (Nashua), Rev. Lorin Webster, Hon. E. B. Jewell, John H. Smith, contractor, Mr. Swan, architect.

The town hall, where the exercises were held, had been beautifully decorated, the hall being decorated with flags, ferns, evergreens, etc. At 2 o'clock the hall was crowded to the doors, and many were unable to gain admittance. On the stage were seated the invited guests, the trustees of the Library and the selectmen.

B. Blaisdell acted as president of the day and introduced B. M. Smith, who gave a short sketch of his life. Mr. Smith stated that his father was a well-to-do farmer, but that along in the '50's he lost his money by an unfortunate speculation in Concord & Montreal railroad stock. The speaker paid a glowing tribute to his father and remarked that had it not been for his father's teachings he would never have been able to go forth into the world and amass the money that enabled him to build the monument in memory of his beloved parents. At the conclusion of his remarks he handed the keys of the building to First Selectman Geo. F. Sanborn, who in a neat speech, in turn handed them over to Bradbury R. Dearborn, chairman of the board of trustees.

Senator Jacob H. Gallinger, in his eloquent remarks, paid a high tribute to the generosity of Mr. Smith, who left Meredith in 1856 a poor boy, and who never forgot his home, [illegible] wealth to build a monument that would not only keep his memory green, but would be of the greatest benefit to the citizens of Meredith. The Senator reminded those present that on June 17 the battle of Bunker Hill was fought, and that New Hampshire furnished more men that day than any other state in the Union.

Maj. J. A. Greene of Laconia was the next speaker. He was in his happiest vein and spoke as follows:

Mr. Chairman and Ladies and Gentlemen:

I deem it a proud distinction to have been invited to occupy, for a few moments, this platform, graced by these prominent gentlemen and surrounded by this intelligent and enlightened assembly.

You have met today, my friends, to assist in dedicating to public use the noble and generous gift of your former townsman, the magnificent structure which is to be the future home of literary treasures and priceless volumes.

The grand and imposing Memorial will henceforth not only beautify and adorn your charming village but must of necessity lend added impetus to educational matters, exerting on the minds of both old and young the brightening and cheerful influence of the mid-day sun, the refreshing and invigorating effects of a summer shower, marking an epoch in the history of Meredith which will conduce in no small degree towards the progress and advancement of educational and intellectual attainments.

Our forefathers found here and hereabouts a vast wilderness which they fearlessly penetrated, armed with the holy Bible, the rifle and the axe.

From the sacred book they gained encouragement and inspiration, with the rifle they protected their families from the savage and treacherous wolf and the still more savage and treacherous Indian. With the axe they felled the trees and soon the valleys blossomed with rich fields of waving grain. Log mills appeared upon the streams and schoolhouses on the hillsides.

The hillsides and lovely valleys, the lordly mountains and stately hills, the smiling lakes and picturesque streams, the gorgeous sun and mellow moon are with us still in all their glory and grandeur, but O, how altered the conditions, how changed the ideals of men. Look around us, meditate for a moment. No longer is heard the terrifying howl of the wolf or the murderous war whoop of the Indian—in their stead we hear the peaceful whistle from yon mill, melodious and harmonious chimes from neighboring belfry high, and the busy voice of business activity.

No longer does the rattle of the lumbering stage coach mingle with the buzz of grandma's spinning wheel. Now the thunder of the iron steed rushing with lightning speed over threads of steel mingle with the hum of countless spindles controlled by intricate machinery, propelled by giant power.

No longer is found the log school house and lyceum which served well their purpose in early days. They have given way to the modern, up-to-date institutions, the latest acquisition to which is the Benj. M. Smith Memorial Library.

May its substantial walls and artistic roof long stand to preserve and protect their precious contents.

May its influence enlarge, its usefulness expand, its volumes multiply, its visitors increase as the wheels of time, year by year, roll on. May its portals ever remain invitingly open to all who hunger for enlightment, that they may partake of the intellectual feast of good things therein abundantly provided; to all who thirst for information, that they may drink deep and exhilerating draughts from this fascinating and enchanting fountain of knowledge and entertainment—invigorating and refreshing draughts of history and travel, science and art, classics and fiction.

And may "Old Glory," which is conspicuously absent from the library staff today, float proudly therefrom, in heaven's pure breezes, indefinitely—that starry flag for which our forefathers fought, that magnanimous and sacred banner, glorious emblem of enlightment, justice and liberty.

Mrs. George Gilman then read an original poem, and was followed by Mayor Cole of Beverley, Mayor Hurley of Salem, the Rev Lorin Webster, principal of Holderness School, Hon. E.B. Jewell of Laconia, Judge Taft and Mr. Eaton of Gloucester, and others.

During the afternoon, Selectman Fred H. Smith introduced the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

"Whereas, we desire to express to Benj. M. Smith our appreciation of his magnificent gift to the town of Meredith, a gift so substantial and liberal in its proportions as to endure for the benefit of this and future generations;

"Resolved, that we deeply appreciate the generosity, the public spirit and the love for the town in which the giver passed his earlier years, which prompted so great a gift;

"Resolved, that in the selection of the site of the building, in the beauty and solidity of the structure, and in the completeness of its equipments, we recognize the fine taste and liberal hand of our benefactor;

"Resolved, that we pledge ourselves properly to use and care for the gift and gratefully to remember the giver in future years.

Then came the inspection of the library, after which [illegible] Massachusetts visitors [illegible] to their homes on the 4.4[illegible]

In the orght and joyous dawning of a century we stand.
And watch the tide of Knowledge sweeping o'er our mighty land,
Over city, valley, mountain; o'er village, river, lake,
Expanding human hearts and minds, and bidding men awake

Cast out old superstitions and throw prejudice away.
Behold the Tree of Knowledge that is given us today—
Making scholars of our children who are eager to embrace
Each needed step of progress in the educational race.

The scales of ignorance are falling from the eyes of men:
The hand that wields the sword today shall trust unto the pen:
The onward march of Knowledge shall be felt in every land
And each down-trodden nation shall awake and understand.

That tide hath passed o'er Meredith and left its imprint here
In benefits that all may share through many a coming year.
It touched the heart of one man—and it did not touch in vain,
His generous soul responded to our individual gain.

Behold this handsome structure—our new Public Library,
One golden step of progress in our village history.
The blessings of the gift shall last, the giver's name live on
In other hearts and memories when we are dead and gone.

A treasure spot this hall shall be wherein each one may find
The accumulated wisdom that sages left behind:
A storehouse for the garnered wealth of centuries of thought
Of great minds past and present, and achievements they have wrought.

All the ologies, and isms, art, and scientific lore
And wondrous gem from fictionland, and poetry galore:
The histories of all ages we shall find upon its shelves,
Of foreign lands and people, of our country and ourselves.

Within these walls we oft shall spend full many a pleasant hour
In pleasure, and in profit, too, for knowledge giveth power.
Increaseth intellectual force and hearts and souls uplift.
God bless the giver; bless the deed—and, O, God, bless the gift.

The interior of the building is finished in brown ash. The building contains a reading room, conversation hall, delivery room, trustees' room and two apartments for the books. The press was represented as follows: Boston Journal, W. J. Randolph; Boston Herald, Mr. Wright; Manchester Union and Meredith News, W. T. Lance.

The Boston Herald gives the following short sketch of Mr. Smith:

"Benjamin M. Smith, who gives the library to the town of Meredith, was born in 1833 in the little town of Centre Harbor, a little way from Meredith. When he was 21 he married a Newburyport girl and moved to Meredith, where his son, Ralph Smith, now assistant postmaster of Beverly, was born. During 14 years he lived in Meredith, and about 35 years ago he moved to Massachusetts and has lived in Beverly a score of years. He amassed a competance in trading. For years he has had the control of several brands of stockings made by stocking mills of this state, and early laid the foundation for a route which carried him over Essex county. People would wait weeks for his appearance, so good were his stockings, and in this way he established a trade which grew with the years and brought in golden streams of money each year. He dabbled in agriculture, produced several varieties of strawberries and made a reputation at raising other varieties of fruit.

When Californians hanged a father aged seventy and his four sons, the youngest of whom was only seventeen, for petty larceny, they committed a crime which richly deserves the gallows. It is to be hoped that the Governor will have the nerve to enforce the law.

The Administration must be up against it pretty hard when it is seriously considering making Judge Taft an army officer so that he can govern the Philippines civilly by military law.

One reason that we have for thinking that perhaps the president's policy is right, after all, is the fact that Mr. Bryan is so awfully down on it.

A New England Trio

For years New England north from Boston has been frequented by the vacationist and health seeker. The first and most important feature which has made the region famous is health-giving atmosphere; and this with delightful scenic surroundings, comfortable abiding places, an abundance of methods for diversion, coupled with unexcelled traveling facilities, suffice to make the territory a most superior and much sought outing place.

Northern New England is really divided into three principal resort regions, viz: Mountains, Sea Shore and Lakes; and for six cents in in stamps the General Passenger and Ticket Agent of the Boston & Maine system, Boston, will send you a trio of booklets, known as, "Among the Mountains," "Lakes and Streams," and "All Along Shore," and with them you will get a tour book which is overflowing with information of benefit to travelers in Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. This company issues a variety of illustrated and descriptive books which are listed in a readable index, and if you want to know about them, drop a postal to the above address.

The rates are the lowest—the routes most numerous—line the most direct and its trains without question the best equipped of any from Boston. Danger In Drink

Beer and whiskey have a destructive and poisonous effect upon the Kidneys and Bladder. It is well known to scientists that these vital organs are diseased in all men and women who drink habitually or occasionally. First thing they know, there is a pain in the small of the back. The face is pale or very high colored. The eyes sunken. The urine is discolored or has a sediment. There is frequent desire to urinate, especially at night, and in passing water there is a scalding and burning sensation. If you suffer from a single one of these symptoms and want to avoid fatal consequences, take a course of treatment with which will speedily correct the bad effects of intoxicating drinks, and prevent those awful headaches. It will restore the tone and vigor which the liquors have destroyed, and establish a perfectly healthy condition of all Urinary Organs. It will also purify and enrich the blood, thus curing Rheumatism, Eczema, Scrofula and Salt Rheum. A single dose works wonders.

J. N. Ganse, living near Wappingers Falls, N.Y., declares he was saved from an awful death by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy. His kidneys were in a dreadful shape, one-quarter of his urine being blood. For two years he was confined to his house and bed with terrible pains in back and head. Today he is healthy and strong because he took Favorite Remedy.

A large bottle is sold by druggists for $1, or six bottles for $5.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE. TRY THIS TEST.

Send your name and address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY CORPORATION, Rondout, N.Y., mentioning this paper. You will receive by return mail, absolutely free, a trial bottle of Favorite Remedy, and a pamphlet containing valuable medical advice, such as everybody needs.

Put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours. A sediment at the bottom or a milky, cloudy appearance indicates that the kidneys are in a dangerous condition, and that Favorite Remedy is badly needed. Healthy urine is clear, and does not stain linen.

MEREDITH BUSINESS MEN.

Sketches of Those Who Attended New Hampton Literary Institution.

(A. Chester Clark in The Hamptonia.)

It is a notable fact that a large number of those who are transacting the business of Central New Hampshire have been at some time connected with our Institution. Some time ago a friend of the Hamptonia suggested that this fact should be brought to the notice of the public through its columns. We have adopted the suggestion and selected Meredith as the most convenient starting point, hoping that those who follow us in the management of the paper may cover other towns in this locality.

Among the more extensive dealers in groceries and provisions is David A. Ambrose, who entered New Hampton Literary Institution from Moultonboro. Mr. Ambrose first went into business in Meredith in 1876, when he opened a furniture establishment at the corner of Main and Winnipesaukee Streets, conducting an extensive undertaking business in connection. The fire of 1889, which destroyed Hodgson's hosiery mills, also wiped out Mr. Ambrose's business. He has not since carried a line of furniture but in 1896 became a partner in the firm of Sanborn and Ambrose, soon after purching the interest of his partner, Ned B. Sanborn. Mr. Ambrose keeps an extensive stock of goods and enjoys a liberal patronage. He was treasurer of the fire district at the time the water system was installed and is associated with the Free Baptist church. He was a member of the Literary Adelphi at New Hampton.

Harry L. Brown, of the firm of Harry L. Brown & Co., has during the larger part of the time in the last twelve years conducted a music store in town. While at New Hampton he was a member of the Social Fraternity. He is a member of Algonquin Tribe, I. O. R. M. and has served his town four years as a member of the Board of Education.

One of the oldest and most familiar figures in the business circles of the town is Aaron S. Clough, proprietor of the Maples, the popular summer boarding house at the head of Highland Street. He is also a patentee and manufacturer of Clough's adjustable sieve, a very useful implement among the farmers. Mr. Clough has been a life long resident of the town. He has served as water commissioner since the inception of the water system eight years ago and has recently been elected for another term of three years. He has also been at various times a member of the Board of Education for the special district, including the village, a library trustee, and of late has served on the construction committee of the new Smith Memorial Library. He is a Mason and a Granger. At New Hampton he was a "Dolphin."

Among the most widely known business men of Meredith is Bradbury R. Dearborn, N. H. L. I., '74.

After leaving New Hampton he was associated with his father in the conduct of a milk route for a number of years, but in 1891 he became treasurer of the Meredith Shook & Lumber Company, the largest manufacturing industry of the town, which position he now holds. This company now uses millions of feet of lumber each year in the manufacture of box shook which is used not only in this country but in foreign lands. Mr. Dearborn is a member of Chocorua Lodge, A. F. and A. M., of Meredith, is a trustee of the public library, auditor and election inspector. He has also served as town clerk in 1893, as deputy sheriff 1888-1890, and as high sheriff for Belknap county, 1892 to 1896. He was a member of the Social Fraternity at New Hampton.

Justus Erskine, although spending his life in the work of the Christian ministry, must be considered one of the town's business men, inasmuch as he is occupying the responsible position of president of the Meredith Village Savings Bank, of which he has been a trustee for years. He was educated in the divinity school conducted here in the early days of Free Baptist control and is now president of the Board of Corporators and a trustee of New Hampton Literary Institution.

Charles H. Hawkins, civil engineer surveyor, and draughtsman, with office in Post Office block is one of the rising young men of the town. He was graduated from the Meredith High school in 1893, then attended the Concord High school a short time and graduated from the Commercial College in Hampton Literary Institution in 1896. He has been associated with Arthur F. Gray, architect, Boston, the Boston Terminal Company in the construction of the Boston Terminal station, and with the N. Y. N. H. & H. R. R. He is now building up an extensive business in Meredith and the surrounding country. While here he was an influential member of the Social Fraternity and addressed that society at the anniversary of 1896.

William H. Neal, '88, C. C., '91, is proprietor of the Hillside milk farm and one of the largest known breeders of fancy stock in the state. He has served several years as selectman of Meredith. He was a member of the Social Fraternity while at New Hampton.

One of the best and most favorably known firms of the town is that of Pease & Towle, dealers in groceries and hardware. Both partners in this concern, Frank B. Pease and Fred W. Towle, are New Hampton men. Eighteen years ago, Mr. Pease became a member of the firm of Green & Pease, and one year later, Mr. Green having died, the present partnership had its beginning. Their business is conducted in an up-to-date and business-like manner, and as a result they get their full share of patronage. Mr. Pease is a Past Grand of Belknap Lodge, I. O. O. F., and was a member of the board of education five years. Mr. Towle has been town treasurer, auditor of the county reports and in 1895 served the town in the legislature. Both partners were "Fraters" at New Hampton.

GEORGE F. SANBORN.

One of the firms of recent organization is that of Eastman & Proctor, jewelers. Harry Proctor, the junior partner, came to Meredith from Bristol to enter this busines in 1897. Mr. Proctor was educated in the New Hampton Commercial College in 1894 and was a member of the Literary Adelphi.

JOSEPH F. SMITH.

Edmund Quimby, a member of the firm of John W. Beede & Co., dealers in general merchandise, is one of the most popular business men of the town. He was at New Hampton in 1878 and 1879 and was a member of the Social Fraternity. After leaving New Hampton he worked for Beede & Co. for several summers and in 1883 became a permanent employee. Fifteen years later he became a partner. This firm is now, as it always has been, one of the leading business concerns in this region. Mr. Quimby is a Mason, belonging to both Chocorua Lodge and Union Chapter at Laconia. He was town treasurer in 1898 and 1899, has served as treasurer of the fire district since 1894 and is serving his third term as supervisor.

No man has been more closely identified with the developement of Meredith during the last score of years than Geo. F. Sanborn, who now conducts a drug store and real estate and insurance agency at the corner of Maine and Water Streets. Mr. Sanborn was a prime mover in the establishment of the water system and has been chairman of the board of Water Commissioners since its inception. He has been identified with the Meredith Electric Light Company, of which he is manager, since its organization. Mr. Sanborn also started the Meredith NEWS in 1880 and was for twelve years its editor. Through the columns of the NEWS he first suggested the founding of the Meredith Public Library and he himself gave the first books. Mr. Sanborn is prominent in the Amoskeag Veterans, a member of the Manchester Lodge of Elks, of the Royal Arcanum at Laconia and at New Hampton was a Frater. He has been honored by his fellow citizens with elections to various positions, including moderator, representative to the legislature of 1885 and is now serving his second term as chairman of the board of selectmen.

Joseph F. Smith, a leading farmer and lumber dealer in town, was educated at New Hampton, where he was a leading Dolphin. Mr. Smith's business career has not been confined to Meredith. He was for 20 years selling agent for the Plymouth (Mass.) Woollen Co., with office in Boston. Since his return to Meredith he has devoted much attention to public business in the various positions to which he has been elected. Among these positions are representatives in 1899, selectman 1893 and 1894, and county commissioner since 1894, having been recently elected for a fourth term. He is now considered a very strong factor in county politics. Mr. Smith is a Mason, an Odd Fellow and a Granger. He is also a member of the Board of Trustees of New Hampton Literary Institution.

John S. Wadleigh, merchant tailor, closes our list. He began business in town in 1872 and has continued in the same place, in Wiggin block, since that time. Mr. Wadleigh is regarded as one of the best workmen in his line in this section and does an extensive business. He is a Republican in politics and, all unsought, several nominations have come to him. He has just been elected town clerk for a second term by a greatly increased majority. He is a Mason and while at New Hampton was a Frater.

Considerable excitement was created Sunday by a report that somebody had been drowned in Lake Waukewan. E. L. Dexter found a boat about 50 feet from the shore near Beede's point, and upon investigation discovered a man's hat and coat and fishing tackle in the boat. He at once notified Geo. F. Sanborn of his discovery, and a number of men proceeded to the spot. It was ascertained that the boat belonged to E. H. Letter from W. Whiting

ME[illegible]ITH, N. H.,

Dear Sir:—Why buy your horse shoes and nails of your grandfather, if he was a horse smith, made 'em. You can't afford to hammer them out by hand, when you can buy as good, or better perhaps, ready made to your hand, for a little more than the cost of the iron.

What do you think of a painter who goes on buying his linseed oil and white lead, and mixing, and tinting by hand, and charging his time for work that is far better done than he can do it, done by machinery, done as your horse shoes and nails are made.

Mistake is not it?

He is wasting his chance in the world. There is no better stuff to do business with than good horse shoes and paint; and no better work than putting them on. Good horse shoes well put on: Its the putting 'em on that makes you a blacksmith no matter who makes 'em.

Who wants to go back to old times, and make his own horse shoes?

Between us two, that painter don't know to make good paint—he used to; but paint has run from him.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & Co.

Alas! What is fame? The Boston Herald, in its article on the B. M. Smith Memorial Library, refers to "ex-Congressman Busiel." It's a wonder the name wasn't spelled Buzzell.

The U. S. battleship, Illinois, had her trial trip from Boston over Cape Ann course, June 12, and developed a speed of 17.31 knots an hour for four hours, and during the trial she made a complete turn within 300 yards diameter, in three minutes and eight seconds. This feat has never before been accomplished by any battleship in the world, and the trial demonstrated that this is the fastest battleship in the American navy.

Busiel of Laconia didn't put in an appearance at the library dedication Monday. It is quite possible that when he learned that the Boston & Maine R.R. brought the material used in the construction of the new library to Meredith at half rates it struck him that Meredith wasn't a good town to abuse President Tuttle in just now. However, it was just as well that he didn't come. The hall was crowded to suffocation and we don't see how the ushers could possibly have found room for such a large-sized individual.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Benjamin Adams, the banker who was arrested for playing golf on Sunday, has been found "not guilty" by a Yonkers jury. Yet he was taken red handed, ball, stick and caddie. The jury further recommend "that the law governing the observance of the first day in the week, commonly called Sunday, be repealed or so amended that it will not prohibit or interfere with the innocent enjoyment of the people on that day." A starling reversion of justice certainly. To acquit the criminal and condemn the law.

MY MEREDITH.

Oh Meredith, my Meredith, thou art a beauty spot
Upon the face of Nature, which shall never be forgot.
I loved thee in my boyhood, I love thee in old age;
For thee and thou, forever, shall all my thoughts engage.

'Twas in thy precints, lovely, I first saw the light of day
And felt how good it was to be a portion of thy clay.
When in my youthful gladness I wrought in fancy free
And joyed that mother Nature had made me manly—free.

In other lands I linger and try to insinuate
My love and home and interest, yet never adequate;
For thoughts of thee come welling up—an ever changing wreath
Oh! I am still exotic and in my home and heath.

May all thy future fairness be deemed alike by all
Thy future generation will bless their lot may fall.
[illegible] have a gracious thought
Which is a benediction here my days are fraught.

Our esteemed neighbor, the Laconia News and Critic, has 'em again, and it has 'em bad. Once more there is sorrow and despair in our brother's sanctum. It is not, this time, on account of leaky roofs and churchless towns, nor is it over the poor debating qualities of Laconia high school boys that the tears fall. Our Republican friend positively refuses to be happy until matters have been arranged so that McKinley (and Hanna) can wear a crown and officiate as president of the United States for the rest of his life. Read, you whose hearts can beat in soulful sympathy:

"It is unfortunate that our custom is such that McKinley does not think proper to run again, for McKinley is much the best president we have had for many years, and when you get a good man it is always safe to keep him."

Isn't the above rich and rare? When our forefathers threw off the yoke of monarchism and declared that even Washington should not serve more than two terms, because it smacked of imperialism and was not in accord with republican sentiments, they knew not what they did and established a bad precedent. The Critic says so, and it must be true. By all means, William McKinley (and with him Mark Hanna, as a matter of course), should be given a third, yea a fourth, and why not a fifth and sixth term. He is the only great man in the United States today, and "when you get such a good man you ought to keep him." Oh, dear, oh dear, this weather is so warm that it is really wicked to provoke a law-abiding community into hysterical laughter. If a change of Congressman can be effected next year Brother Weeks should be able to land the Laconia post office.

Senator Burnham also seems to have "cast an anchor to the windward" and joined the grange, receiving the fourth degree and full fellowship in the order in Amoskeag grange, Manchester, Tuesday evening. Capital and Amoskeag granges are now upon an equality in one respect, each having a senator on its membership roll.—Portsmouth Times.

Pearson C. Cheney, ex-Governor of New Hampshire, died last Wednesday. Editor Putney of the Manchester Mirror pays the following tribute to the deceased: "He was a self-made man. His principal inheritance from his parents was his character, shaped by their training and example. He was pure in mind, in word and in deed. He made no loud professions, he did not pose as a reformer; he did not shout to others to turn from the errors of their ways and walk in his path; but he lived the life of purity, honesty, sobriety and reverence for holy things, every day and hour, an example to be followed by the right-minded and pure-hearted."

COMMUNICATION.

EDITOR NEWS:

I noticed a communication in your columns recently from the pen of J. F. Beede which I consider worth reading a second time. It was evidently written in a congratulatory strain, referring to the establishment of a Village Improvement Society in your town. It ended by expressing hopes and intimating possibilities in the position of local inebriates.

This is the first time that I have ever seen the duties of such a society described in a like manner. While no doubt, such a state of things would be an improvement to any village, yet I have always supposed, and people generally have accepted the idea that the labors of such an organization should be devoted to material improvement in the direction of good clean streets and sidewalks, extension of parks and natural adornment of surroundings, without any attempt at the cleansing of morals except through their proper channels.

This new society, acting under the suggestion of Mr. Beede, would find, I am afraid, a task almost beyond their present conception. If you eliminate the unfortunate drunkard from the society of your community, then in honor's name include those who are intoxicants, and who are so fortunate as to not show it. Such a one is equally guilty, and when you include this class you will cut into church membership to a considerable extent, I am afraid. This is an unpleasant statement, but many truths in life are so.

Of what use is it to attempt to control the drunkard and have the open rum shop behind him, and likewise of what avail are the efforts against the seller so long as he is backed by the consent and protection of official power? This power is more to be dreaded by a moral community than whole streets of rum shops, for here is where the responsibility for the non-enforcement of the law rests.

Two newspapers in the city of Manchester, the Union and the News, have dared to come out strongly and openly against this power, and their attitude has been the subject of much applause from the press of this state, with the exception of one paper in the same city which has taken an unenviable attitude in the matter. I am fortunate in belonging to the staff of one of the journals which dares, and in watching the course of events, believe that in attacking this official power first, to the exclusion of all else, would be productive of more valuable results than for an improvement society to attempt to clear out the victims of such power.

I have not seen old Meredith for four years and cannot make an estimate of present conditions, but if all I do hear is true there is plenty of work for the society to do outside of the temperance line. I had made some faint plans to be present at the dedication of the library building, but noticing through the press that the invitations were to be limited I concluded that such a visit would be ill-timed. When I do again go to my native town, as I hope to before long, it will be a pleasure to see some of the magnificent results of such a society; to see the little islands off Winnipesaukee street free from disfiguring boat houses and corduroy walks to the same, but as banks of green upon the surface of this most beautiful lake; to see the bushes cut and cleaned up by the road side; a discontinuing of dumping places within the village limits; every available corner grass spot adorned with vases of plants, an extension of good side walks, good roads, and many other improvements which properly belong to the functions of a well regulated Village Improvement Society.

Yours truly,
D. A. VITTUM.

Dyspeptics cannot be long lived, because to live requires nourishment. Food is not nourishing until it is digested. A disordered stomach cannot digest food, it must have assistance. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests all kinds of food without aid from the stomach, allowing it to rest and regain its natural functions. Its elements are exactly the same as the natural digestive fluids and it simply can't help but do you good.

A Safe Medicine

The public should understand that many medicines contain ingredients that were never intended by Nature to enter the human system. Such dangerous things as lead, copper, zinc, mercury and arsenic are frequently used, to say nothing of stimulants and opiates.

Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy

on the other hand, is an absolutely safe and harmless medicine for all diseases of the Kidneys, Liver, Bladder and Blood. It contains no minerals in any form, no dangerous stimulants, no mercury or poison. It contains vegetable juices only. Invalids and children can take it with perfect safety. It is a grand medicine for aged people, who are growing weak as the years pass by. For all distressing forms of Kidney Troubles and for stubborn Constipation it is incomparable. It goes deep and cures.

Wm. Brown, of Danbury, Conn., had Kidney Trouble the very worst way. He could not sleep, and had to get up constantly during the night. Urine passed from him involuntarily in the daytime also. Two or three bottles of Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy restored his Kidneys to perfect action.

A large bottle of Favorite Remedy can be bought at drug stores for $1, or six bottles for $5.

TRIAL BOTTLE FREE.

Send your name and address to the DR. DAVID KENNEDY CORPORATION, Rondout, N. Y., mentioning this paper. You will receive by return mail, absolutely free, a trial bottle of Favorite Remedy and a pamphlet containing valuable medical advice, such as everybody needs.

TRY THIS TEST.

Put some urine in a glass tumbler and let it stand 24 hours. A sediment at the bottom, or a milky, cloudy appearance indicates that the kidneys are in a dangerous condition and that Favorite Remedy is badly needed. Healthy urine is clear and does not stain linen.

B. M. SMITH MEMORIAL LIBRARY, MEREDITH.

The library is of classical style of architecture. The walls are of red brick, plain and molded, with Concord granite trummings, and rest on a foundation of local granite. The building is one and one-half stories high, with hip roof, surmounted on a pediment containing a clock, the dial of which is 3 feet 6 inches in diameter. The roof is covered with blue slate.

The main structure is 48 feet by 28 feet; in the rear is a stack room 28 feet by 22 feet. The principal entrance is in the center of the front and is approached by a flight of granite steps 10 feet wide, with buttresses at each side 24 inches wide and fitted up with square posts to receive lamp posts. There is also an arch over this entrance formed of granite blocks with granite keystone. On the keystone is an open book; on the granite blocks are the words "Memorial Library." Above this arch are two granite medallions with the letters A. D. on one and figures 1900 on the other.

Just above these is a granite block on which is the dedi[cation] name. At the corners of the building and front projection are plain columns projecting four feet from the structure and 20 inches wide on the face, each of which is a capital formed of molded blocks, the balance being the best face brick from Danvers, Mass.

The entrance at the front of the main building leads by a vestibule 4 feet six inches by 8 feet, wainscoted with tile and tiled floor. There is a bronzed tablet with data, etc. at one side over the wainscoting. Beyond the vestibule is the delivery room 11 feet 6 inches by 14 feet and 14 feet 6 inches high, with a ceiling. At the farther end is the delivery counter. At the left is the general reading room and at the right of the reference room, each being 19 feet 6 inches and finished 14 feet in the clear. Each has an open fire place and mantel and is lighted by a group of three windows on the side and six on the front.

In the rear of the general reading room is the librarian's apartment, 7 feet by 16 feet, with an open fireplace and mantel. From this a door opens in to the stack-room.

Just beyond is a flight of stairs leading to a room 26 feet by 27 feet, which can be used for the trustees or for additional bookroom.

In the rear of the general reading room is a side hall 4 by 17 feet, to which there is an outside entrance door, one opening into the stack-room, a stairway connected with the basement and leading to the second story hall and from there to the clock room. There is also in this side hall a fire proof vault with all modern fixtures for the use of the town.

The stack room is 26 feet by 27 feet, and has shelving for the storage of about 12,000.

The interior standing finish is of the best western ash, the floors of the main building are of quartered oak, and those of the stackroom Georgia rift hard pine. The walls and ceilings are tinted and decorated. The heating is by a hot-air furnace. The building is lighted by electricity.

The Day's Chief Topic.

Where and how to spend the summer is a question to be considered by nearly everybody. If you are not interested, you should be, and if you are, consider New England, with its great wealth of mountains, rivers, lakes, seashore and historic spots.

In the heart of the Appalachain Range, the secondary range of America, which includes the famous White Mountains, are hundreds of places where one may go and enjoy the cool quiet grandeur of the magnificence of the panoramic scenery, its grand precipitous rock, its green fields and the beautiful every lakes dotted here and there like bits of broken mirror.

Think of the places where sports of all kinds may be enjoyed, including the popular games of golf, polo and tennis.

Leave the mountains and turn to the beautiful lakes and streams, or to the vast, grand ocean which forms the eastern boundary of New England, here boating, fishing, yachting and bathing are participated in more than in any other part of the world.

New England lacks not historical, but can boast of containing many relics of the early pilgrim settlers, as well of the Indian and Revolutionary periods.

A valuable book containing a list of hotels and boarding houses with their rates and accommodations, also maps, routes and rates of the Boston & Maine railroad and connections will be sent free to anyone on application to the Passenger Department of the Boston & Maine railroad, Boston, Mass.

Some people talk very flippantly about diminished vitality.

Buy a ticket for the dance at the Town Hall Wednesday night, July 3, even if you do not care to attend. The proceeds are to be added to the firemen's sick benefit fund. The object is a worthy one and should receive the patronage of the public.

The New England Telephone Co. is constructing a line connecting Meredith with Pine Island in Lake Winnipesaukee. The line will be seven miles in length and the overhead wires will cross three islands in order to reach Pine Island. The greatest length of span across water is 500 feet.

A dance will be held at the Town Hall Wednesday evening, July 3, for the benefit of sick firemen, under the auspices of Wamesit Hose Co's, 1 and 2. Chase's orchestra will furnish the music and refreshments will be served by Chas. H. Cram. The firemen are in hopes that their sick benefit fund will be considerably increased.

James Burleigh has come to the conclusion that while ice may be the fit and proper thing to pack around a dead "porker," it is not just the right article to use as far as a live member of the genus pig is concerned. He tried an experiment the other day and for a time it looked as if he was out of pocket exactly $3. Even the pig's squeel froze right in the middle of a high-keyed note. His friends (James', not the pig's,) are in a quandary. They hardly know whether the joke is on James or the pig.

Miss Lillian Lance received quite a scare a few days ago. She went to the rear of her parents' residence to get a few sticks of kindling wood and was about to put one of the sticks across her arm when she discovered that a snake was coiled around the stick. Quite womanlike, she fainted, and when that portion of the usual female programme had been properly observed, she sprinted for the house at a speed that probably never will be equalled in Meredith. While it is quite certain that not a few editors have seen snakes in the course of their turbulent careers, this is probably one of the few instance of an editor's daughter having an experience with them.

Geo. G. Hoyt, Jr., has returned from a trip to Denver, Col.

E. F. Roberts of Medford, Mass., is visiting friends in Meredith.

Miss Ada Gray of Hillsborough is the guest of Miss Mina Moses.

Col. S. S. Jewett of Laconia was in town Saturday.

Miss Hattie Moses has returned from Philadelphia, where she is employed as a school teacher, and will spend the summer in Meredith.

Mrs. Page and child are the guests of Mrs. Paige's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Meloon.

Mrs. Cyrus Sargent of Auburndale, Mass., lies at the point of death at the residence of H. F. Hawkins. She has been afflicted with Bright's disease for several weeks and gave birth to a child a couple of weeks ago. Since that event she has been slowly sinking, and her death is expected to occur at any time.

John Smith, Jr., of Boston, desires the NEWS to correct certain misstatements published in regard to his father's financial standing. Mr. Smith states that his father did not lose any money after he came here, and that when he settled in Meredith he had the money derived from the sale of his farm, $3,000, also stock, crops and tools. He also owned the house now the property of John Knowles, valued at $2,000; also the present Hiram Bixby property and an island on the lake valued at $2,500.

A few days ago information was forwarded to County Solicitor W. D. Veasey, at Laconia, that William Caverly was running a "speak easy" at his residence on Winnipesaukee street. Last Thursday Deputy-Sheriff Page and ex-Policeman Frank Moody called at the house to investigate. Mrs. Caverly was at home and finally admitted that she had a few bottles "for family use" in the house. A search was instituted and four bottles were found in the house and 101 bottles in the barn. Later in the day Caverly was fined $50 and, we understand, was informed that it would cost $100 to settle with the court if another charge is brought against him.

Winnipesaukee Grange held a basket picnic Saturday at Chapman's beach, on Centre Harbor, in response to Master Batchelder's request that Saturday, June 22, be observed as Children's Day. A game of baseball was indulged in, and running and swimming races and other sports assisted in making the outing a pleasant one for the young people.

Among those who attended the commencement exercises at Tilton last week were: Postmaster and Mrs. S. M. Estes, Mabel Estes, Mrs. F. L. Hawkins, Annie Jones, Donna Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. Smith, Bertram Blaisdell, Bertha Pease, Charles Jones, LeRoy G. Collins.

Willie F. Lance, the 9-year-old son of W. T. Lance, editor of the NEWS, met with a painful accident Saturday afternoon, near Centre Harbor. He attended the basket picnic at Chapman's beach given by Winnipesaukee Grange in observance of Children's Day, and was seated in a large wagon drawn by four horses. The vehicle was filled with young people, and the horses were started on the homeward journey when the wagon struck a stone and the jolting caused a pair of ice tongs to spread out. One of the nippers caught in the wagon wheel and the other went through the boy's left hand and imbedded itself in the side of the wagon. Allie Niles jumped on the backs of the rear horses and, jumping over their heads, brought the leaders to a standstill. The lad's hand was attended to on the spot, and a horse and buggy being procured, he was hurriedly brought to Dr. F. L. Hawkin's residence in Meredith, where the wound was properly dressed. Fortunately no bones were broken. Had the nipper struck his hand even half an inch from where it did the hand would have been disabled for life. The affair created quite a stir, several young ladies fainting when they saw his hand pinned to the wagon.

Difficult Digestion

That is dyspepsia.

It makes life miserable.

Its sufferers eat not because they want to, —but simply because they must.

They know they are irritable and fretful; but they cannot be otherwise.

They complain of a bad taste in the mouth, a tenderness at the pit of the stomach, an uneasy feeling of puffy fulness, headache, heartburn and what not.

The effectual remedy, proved by permanent cures of thousands of severe cases, is

Letter to Edward Perkins.

MEREDITH, N. H.,

Dear Sir: James Ackley's house in Cairo (Catskill Mountains), N. Y., a conspicuous one in the midst of the village, was painted 14 years ago with Devoe; has not been painted since: and the paint is in good condition today. He is going to paint; but there's really no necessity of it.

Devoe has been sold in Cairo 18 years. Our agent is Gaston Wynkoop. House owners there want Devoe, and painters there want Devoe. It would be a hard job to persuade a Cairo man to paint lead and oil—of course a painter paints whatever his customer wants, even if it's buttermilk.

Marian Van Hoesen, a Cairo painter, has painted Devoe for 15 years. There are two or three others: all for Devoe, we are told—don't know their names.

It's the same wherever Devoe gets into a town: it stays there and owns the whole business.

Yours truly,

F. W. DEVOE & CO.

P. S.—Pease & Towle sell our paint in this section.

W. G. Cox, the ice man, would be pleased to have orders for ice cream pieces placed by Friday when they are wanted for Saturday.

Some dry individual stole 35 bottles of beer from a house on Winnipesaukee street Saturday night and there was much mourning in that locality Sunday. It never rains but it pours.

Willie Carder met with a painful mishap Monday. He was handling an ax when it came down across the back of his left hand, inflicting a wound that necessitated the services of Dr. F. L. Hawkins.

Mrs. Mary Drew Peavey died at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Tower, South Boston, Mass., last Sunday, and her body will be brought to Meredith Wednesday. Mrs. Peavey was born May 16, 1795 and was 106 years of age last month. She retained her mental faculties almost to the last. Last Christmas she sent a kindly greeting to her Meredith friends through the medium of the NEWS. At that time she said she was calmly waiting for [illegible] summons to meet her departed ones in the great beyond, and the call came last Sunday.

An event of unusual interest took place Monday evening, at the residence of W. H. Brown, when his daughter, Bertha Beatrice, was united in marriage to Ira Linus Powers. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. Leavitt, in the presence of relatives of the contracting parties and a few invited guests. The Meredith Drum Corps, strengthened for the occasion by nearly twenty pieces, serenaded the newly wedded pair, and the boys were invited into the house and royally entertained. The following is a list of presents received by Mr. and Mrs. Powers: Silver cake basket and fruit knives, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Brown; tea spoons, E. L. Dexter; sugar shell, Clinton Dexter; butter knife, Louise Dexter; picture and coffee pot, Mrs. Dexter; clock, Alfred Perkins; caster, H. L. Brown.

W. G. Cox informs the NEWS that the life of an iceman isn't all that it is cracked up to be. He is proud of his new outfit, but the thoughtless housewife (taken in its plural sense) keeps him warm, when, according to the nature of his business, he should be cool. Last year he was informed by several ladies that they would have their refrigerators ready if he would only buy a bell and attach it to the ice wagon, so as to warn them of his presence in the neighborhood. He secured a cow bell that can be heard rods away, yet he finds that, in many cases, he has to wait until the refrigerators can be cleaned before they are ready for the daily consignment. The NEWS' advice to Mr. Cox is to leave the ice on the parlor carpet a few times. That ought to bring the sound of the bell distinctly to the notice of the offending parties.

Miss Ada Wadleigh Gray delivered the salutatory address at the commencement exercises at Hillsborough High School last week. Miss Gray is the daughter of Thomas Gray, a former proprietor of the Elm Hotel in this town. The Hillsborough Messenger says: "Miss Gray presented a very logical and interesting paper, showing that every one from the pet dog to the most skilled artist was susceptible to praise, and the more skillful the workman the harder he strove to perform his work so as to merit commendation. She was perfectly at home and her enunciation excellent."

His system of and it took [illegible] was alleged to be bad, straightene[illegible] weeks to get matters ago the sel[illegible] ut. A few months Lang, T. L. [illegible] tsmen notified Capt. Choate, who [illegible] Wadleigh and T. Finally th[illegible] urts were appealed to and a fe[illegible] ays ago a judgment was secured [illegible] for the amount above stated and [illegible] t fees, and Saturday we were in[illegible] ed that the men who signed Mr. [illegible] 's bonds would be called upon [illegible] pay that amount at once.

Saturday [illegible] arrested on [illegible] orning Mr. Reed was complaint of his bonds- [illegible] misappropriating $703.21 of t[illegible] town's money. A hearing was [illegible] in the law office of B. Blaisdell, [illegible] the prisoner tele- phoned to P[illegible] mouth for his lawyer, Mr. Burleigh [illegible] o come to his assist- ance. Mr. [illegible] rleigh failed to put in an appearan[illegible] however, and finally the services [illegible] Lawyer Dyer were secured. M[illegible] Dyer knew nothing about the ca[illegible] and asked for an ad- journment [illegible] Thursday, under that he might be in a position to de- fend his client. This request was ac- ceeded to, and Mr. Reed was ordered to find bail to the amount of $1000 for his appearance on the ap- pointed day. This he endeavored to do, but was unsuccessful, the only person coming to his aid being Dr. F. L. Hawkins. The doctor expressed his willingness to be one of three bondsmen, but the other two could not be found. Consequently Mr. Reed was taken to Laconia about 8 p. m., and lodged in jail where he will be detained until next Thursday, when the preliminary hearing will be held.

Allen L. Reed has been a resident of Meredith about ten years, coming here from Dorchester, this state, where he has a mother and other relatives living. He established a barber shop in the building known as Sanborn's drug store, and in a short time was doing an extensive business. He was affable and painstaking and made friends by the score. About the time he went into politics, some three years ago, it is said that he had $1000 or more in the bank and in addition he owned the barber shop and considerable real estate in Meredith and Dorchester.

His entrance into politics apparently proved to be his ruin. He sold his barber shop and commenced to dabble in wood lots in the north country, and in other schemes. He also, it is understood, became too familiar with the "flowing bowl," and was seldom perfectly sober.

During the past six months Saturday's climax has been daily expected by many who were acquainted with the details of the alleged shortage. The matter has been kept quiet, however, as his friends (and he has not an enemy in town) hoped that he might be able to scrape up the money and thus avoid arrest and its consequences. No one in the world believes that, if he did use the money he used it intentionally. Some claim that it was stolen from him, and there are many ugly rumors flying about, but the only substantial statement that can be made is that the money is missing and that his bondsmen must settle unless some of his friends or relatives come forward with the money.

Mr. Reed did not appear to realize that he was in a serious predicament Saturday. He insisted that his books were all right and that he would soon regain his liberty.

Universal regret is expressed on all sides, and with hardly a single exception the hope is entertained that Mr. Reed will be able to straighten out the tangle caused by loose business methods.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Canney have returned from Augusta, Me., accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Quimby

A. L. Lance, editor of the Richmond Times, and daughters, Grace and Jessie, are the guests of his brother, W. T. Lance.

Mrs. A. H. Eaton has our thanks for as fine a basket of strawberries as we have ever set our eyes upon. They are of the Shuckless variety and were raised on Chestnut Hill farm, Eaton avenue, Meredith Neck.

We clip the following from the Springfield Republican of a recent date: A pretty June wedding took place last evening at 6 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Geo. C. Pitman, 50 Jefferson avenue, when their niece, Miss Alice Caroline McKay, was married to Eugene Charles Perkins. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles Conklin of the Third Universalist church. The guests were received, before the ceremony, by Mr. and Mrs. Pitman, and the bride's mother, Mrs. N. B. McKay of New York. The bride wore a handsome gown of white tucked mull and lace, and carried white roses. The bride's sister, Miss Laura McKay of Montreal, who acted as maid of honor, wore pale blue silk and carried pink roses. George A. Gow of Hartford, Ct., was best man. The ushers were L. G. Barhydt of Worcester and E. M. Wilkins of this city. Miss Fannie Hunt played the Mendelssohn wedding march as the bridal party entered the parlor. Refreshments were served by Misses Grace Nelson, Louise Pierce, Edith Gibbins and Adelaide Hunt. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a gold pin set with pearls. The groom's gifts to the ushers were handsome scarf pins. The bride was the recipient of many beautiful gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Perkins will take a short wedding trip, and will be at home to their friends after September 1 at 50 Jefferson avenue. The out-of-town guests, including Mrs. Alice H. Merrill of Peabody, T. Angus McKay of New York and Mrs. George Thurston and Miss Grace Thurston of Meredith, N. H.

CARD OF THANKS.

The trustees of the Public Library extend their hearty thanks to the various committees having the dedication exercises in charge and all friends who so kindly assisted in various ways to make the day a success.

Nothing like it.

The Greatest Thing in the World.

The whole of New England and, in fact, the whole world is talking of the Pan-American Exposition, which opens on May 1 and continues until November 1, 1901. It is by far the most complete and artistic Exposition ever gotten up, and everything on exhibition is well worth seeing.

New Englanders will be particularly interested in the Manufactures and Machinery exhibits, so close is their connection with the interests therein contained, while the wonderful exhibits in Uncle Sam's three buildings and in the Electricity Building will prove instructive and profitable to every visitor. There is no branch in science or industry that is not represented; neither is there a country in the Western Hemisphere but what has deemed it advisable to exhibit at Buffalo, and you can depend upon it that everything worth showing will be shown.

Buffalo is just the city for a great exposition. Its location is on the shores of Lake Erie, assuring a cool and delightful temperature. Its every street is like a park, and all its environs are conductive of pleasure. A delightful ride of less than an hour takes you to Niagar Falls, which is one of the greatest natural attractions in the world.

The best line to Buffalo from any point in New England is via the Boston & Maine R. R. This route lies through the famed Berkshire and Hoosac valleys, than which there is none more beautiful. The Boston & Maine has arranged for low rates to Buffalo from all points on its line, and if you are going to the great show send to the General Passenger Dept., B. & M. R. R., Boston, for information.

PAINT.

This is the season when the home is or should be beautified, and what is there that adds more to the looks of a house than Paint, to say nothing of its need to preserve the wood.

And has anyone ever heard of better or as good paint as that manufactured by the

The Sherwin-Williams Co ?

They manufacture more paint than any other company in the world.

It is the best paint in the world.

Every gallon that is applied right is guaranteed.

A fresh stock expected this week.
